

You Know What I Mean?

An exploration of accurate language in identifying, naming, and communicating emotions.

A small group of women will, over eight weeks, explore the accurate words for what we are feeling.

Learn where such feelings are coming from and what they may really be about, so you can articulate and communicate your feelings to others... accurately!

The group is based on Brene Brown's #1 New York Times best-selling book 'Atlas of the Heart'. This will be a personal journey of safe conversation, journaling, and creative expression.

You will explore emotional literacy as it relates to each person and where they are at in their journey - that is life as a means of improving our human connections and relationships.

A commitment of 8 weeks is required, group is limited to 8 participants.
